THE WIP AWARDS FOR CLOSING THE GENDER GAP

The Women in Parliaments Global Forum believes that best practice examples are most convincing, and can encourage others. That is why WIP will present a series of Annual WIP Awards to countries outperforming on issues, which are at the core of WIP.

The WIP Award for closing the gender gap in the category „Women in Parliaments“ is based on data by the Inter-Parliamentary Union, provided by National Parliaments and listing 188 countries.

The WIP Awards in all other categories are based on the rankings of the World Economic Forum's „Global Gender Gap Report“. The Global Gender Gap Index introduced by the World Economic Forum in 2006, is a framework for capturing the magnitude and scope of gender-based disparities and tracking their progress. The Index benchmarks national gender gaps on economic, political, education- and health-based criteria, and provides country rankings that allow for effective comparisons across regions and income groups, and over time. The rankings are designed to create greater awareness among a global audience of the challenges posed by gender gaps and the opportunities created by reducing them. The methodology and quantitative analysis behind the rankings are intended to serve as a basis for designing effective measures for reducing gender gaps.

The Global Gender Gap Report's index assesses 135 countries, representing more than 93% of the world's population, on how well resources and opportunities are divided among male and female populations. The report measures the size of the gender inequality gap in four areas:

- Economic participation and opportunity – salaries, participation and highly-skilled employment
- Education – access to basic and higher levels of education
- Political empowerment – representation in decision-making structures
- Health and survival – life expectancy and sex ratio

‘When one woman is a leader, it changes her. When more women are leaders, it changes politics and policies.’ (Michelle Bachelet) Traditional social norms, gender stereotypes and biased perceptions of women’s effectiveness in leadership roles are still widespread. What needs to be done to overcome these and what effects would this have on society?

Would an increase in female leadership help advance society?

‘Gender equality is more than a goal in itself. It is a precondition for meeting the challenge of reducing poverty, promoting sustainable development and building good governance.’ (Kofi Annan) More than 50% of the world’s population is female, but not even 20% of political representatives are women. What needs to change to overcome being the minority? What are the messages that female Parliamentarians can pass on?

In which ways are female Members of Parliament the agents of this change?

Is there a specific gender bias in decisions taken at the financial markets? What if these markets were steered by women and what impact would that have on the economy?

‘The terrorists thought they would change my aims and stop my ambitions, but nothing changed in my life except this: weakness, fear and hopelessness died. Strength, power and courage was born.’ (Malala Yousafzai) No other fundamental and human right can exist without access to security and the integrity of the person. Women living in permanent fear of their life integrity can not live up to their potential. What has to be done to advance society in these fundamental areas? What further impact would a positive change in these areas have?
